SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Pierce returned to his happy hunting ground at Candlestick Park Monday and squared the World Series for the San Francisco Giants with a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the sixth game.

Pierce, unbeaten at home with a 12-0 regular season record in this park, had lusty aid from Giant bats which knocked out Whitey Ford in the fifth inning.

Snaps Slump

Orlando Cepeda snapped out of a horrible 0-for-12 batting slump with three straight hits and drove in two Giant runs in the nine-hit attack on Ford.

The first 13 Yanks were retired in order by Pierce and some of the 43,948 fans began to recall Don Larsen's perfect game of 1956 until Roger Maris slammed his fourth Series home run over the right field fence.

Pierce, a stylish 35-year-old workman with a long American League background, had a one-hitter going until the eighth when Clete Boyer doubled with one out and scored on Tony Kubek's single that just eluded a diving Harvey Kuenn in soggy left field.

Helicopters Help

This sixth game, postponed three days because of heavy rains and an unplayable field, was conducted on a damp, soft outfield that had been dried before the game by three helicopters swooping low with their whirling blades.

With the 50th Series all squared at three games each, it will be Jack Sanford (24-7) for the Giants against Ralph Terry (23-12) in Tuesday's seventh game battle of right-handed pitchers. About $4,000 will be hanging in the balance on each pitch, because each winner will get about $12,000 and each loser about $8,000.

Pierce Magnificent

Pierce's three-hitter was a magnificent job. Rested seven days after losing the third game 3-2, the veteran was in real danger only once. That was in the fifth after the homer. A two-base error by Jim Davenport and a walk to Clete Boyer on an intentional fourth ball, put men on first and second with two out.

Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, chose to stick with Ford as his batter and passed up a chance for a pinch hitter. Ford popped up and the Yankees' one and only big chance was over.

As it turned out, Houk left himself open to the usual second guessers, for Ford went out and was raked up for two more runs and chased in the fifth.

Justice Dept. Asks Stiff Fines For Barnett In Meredith Case

Court Puts Off Imposing Penalties

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Justice Department asked the federal appeals court Monday to fine Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett $100,000 for defying court orders in the desegregation case of James H. Meredith, a Negro.

In addition, the Justice Department asked for future fines of $10,000 a day until the governor satisfies the court that he is complying with the court's orders.

The court held Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. in contempt for blocking the enrollment of Meredith, 29, at the University of Mississippi. But the court put off imposing any penalties to give them a chance to purge themselves of the contempt.

In its brief submitted to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, the Justice Department said the United States "has suffered immense financial as well as other harm" from Barnett's defiance of court orders in the historic case.

Not 'Fully' Purged
The governor still has not "fully" purged himself of civil contempt, the Justice Department said, even though Meredith now is enrolled as a student at Ole Miss.

The proposed order drafted by the Justice Department named Barnett as an individual, with no reference to his title. It remained in question whether any fine—if imposed—would have to be paid by Barnett personally, or whether the state could pick up the tab.

The Justice Department said in Washington that anyone could pay whatever fine might be placed on Barnett.

Southern Judges
The appeals court, composed entirely of Southern judges, had found the two Mississippi officials in contempt of its integration order.

On separate occasions, both Barnett and Johnson physically blocked admission of Meredith into the all-white university.

When Meredith came onto the campus Sept. 30, riots brought two deaths and injured scores more.

To show full compliance, the court had instructed Barnett to notify all law enforcement officers and other state officials to:

1. Cease all resistance and interference with Meredith at Ole Miss.

2. Maintain law and order in the campus area.

3. Cooperate with court officers to see that Meredith remains a student.

In event of failure to comply, the court earlier set possible penalties at $10,000 daily fines and jail for Barnett and $5,000 daily fines for Johnson.

The Justice Department said it did not join in calling for Barnett's arrest because it did not believe imprisonment would now serve a useful remedial purpose.

It noted that Meredith is now going to classes and indicated it felt Barnett had partially purged himself.

Expert Urges Assessing Of Damages In River Pollution

POCONO MANOR — A water resources expert said Monday the Delaware River Basin Commission should find ways to assess industries the full cost of polluting the river that feeds Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York and New Jersey.

Allen V. Kneese, research associate for the Resources for the Futures Foundation said fines would force industry to find new ways to handle pollution, possibly the manufacture of by-products from waste.

Kneese was one of several experts and engineers to address the two-day Delaware River Basin Resources Conference which ends Tuesday. It is sponsored jointly by the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin (INCODEL), Delaware River Basin Commission, and the Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin.

Will Disband Agency

INCODEL's executive secretary, James Allen, said his group plans to disband at the end of this year and would turn over its facilities to the new Delaware River Basin Commission, established by Congress to plan use of the river's resources.

Kneese, pointing out pollution damage is greater when the water level is low, suggested a flexible charge schedule to industries would pay a higher damage rate for dumping waste during periods of low flow.

"Certainly few organizations have ever been created," Kneese said, "which are in as good a position to respond constructively to the challenges which face them as the Delaware River Basin Commission."

"The authority provided them under the compact permits the application of imaginative approaches in order to achieve the highest benefits of unified water resources, management and planning for the people and industries of the Delaware Basin."

Five 'Partners'

The new basin commission, like INCODEL, consists of members from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Under the new compact, however, the federal government is a full-fledged partner.

Reviewing the 20 years of Inco-del's administration of basin affairs, John Boardman, the compact's engineer, said a solid foundation had been built for the new commission.

"In 20 years," he said, "Inco-del brought the river from a condition in which it was dead or dying to now, when there is much sewage treatment and no actively polluted area."

He said, as an example of this, shad are now running up and down the river again for the first time in 20 years.

Continuing Effort

The commission's efforts, however, will have to continue as the population continues to grow, he said.

Earlier the chairman of the Delaware Water Pollution Commission, which with Inco-del and the new basin commission sponsored this conference, said his state feels the river is being pushed dangerously close to its maximum assimilative capacity during periods of low flow and high temperatures.

"For these reasons," said Harold L. Jacobs of Wilmington, "it behooves the state of Delaware to keep a watchful eye on and to encourage efforts to reduce industrial and municipal discharges into the river and it is our intention to continue our sampling program as long as we are able or as long as it seems necessary."

Plan For Mentally Retarded

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was given a new social target Monday: Help for 5.4 million mentally retarded Americans—three out of every 100 persons in the United States.

The President's panel on mental retardation said some 125,000 children born each year are destined to become mentally retarded during their lifetimes. The panel urged:

1. Set up a domestic Peace Corps to spur voluntary services to the retarded, especially in "deprived and distressed areas."

2. Found a national research institute of learning to investigate basic learning processes.

3. Spend $30 million to provide comprehensive health services for pregnant women and their offspring in low-income groups where there is a higher risk of mental retardation.

4. Establish 10 new research centers to probe biological, behavioral, social and other pertinent and basic scientific areas.

The panel, in a 281-page report, made more than 100 recommendations, explaining that the causes of mental retardation are complex and varied, and a "broad spectrum" attack is necessary to prevent and treat them.

Using the White House as a stage to present the problem to the public, the panel pointed out these facts:

Of the 5.4 million Americans who are to some extent retarded, 400,000 are so retarded that they must have constant care and supervision. While the rest are only mildly retarded, these frequently are the school drop-outs and the unemployed.

It costs three to four times as much to care for mentally retarded persons in institutions as it does to raise and educate normal children, the panel said.

Its program would be costly, the panel added, but considerably less over the long run than the cost of mental retardation in public expenditures, and loss of national income and resources.

Berlin Issue Tightens As Cuba 'Deal' Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities flatly ruled out Monday any Berlin-Cuba deal with the Soviet Union and predicted the German issue may become a first-class crisis for Christmas.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev was said to have indicated that he will resume his push for a Berlin settlement following the Nov. 6 U.S. elections. The Kremlin's idea of a solution—getting Western forces out of West Berlin—is unacceptable to the West.

The fear expressed by U.S. officials is that the Soviet Union may overstep in its next Berlin drive, because the Western Allies are determined not to be pushed out.

British Unconcerned

It was admitted here, however, that the British do not show as much concern as the Americans over the danger of the German dispute growing acute by the end of this year.

This word was given to some 500 American newspaper, radio and television editors attending a State Department-sponsored briefing by high U.S. officials on foreign policy.

The two-day conference was opened by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the closing speaker Tuesday is scheduled to be President Kennedy.

Under the rules governing the semiannual briefing, none of the speakers could be identified by name but the information they gave could be reported in news stories.

No Package Deal

State Department press officer

Lincoln White put on the record the U.S. rejection of any package deal with Moscow on Berlin and Cuba. Published reports had said the Russians intimated they would ease up in their Cuban activities in return for concessions on Berlin.

White quoted a Sept. 30 statement by Rusk that, "You cannot support freedom in one place by surrendering freedom in another," and added that no Berlin-Cuba bargain had been offered to the United States. If it were, White continued, such an offer "would be kicked right out of the window so fast it would make your head swim."

White also reported three more notes arrived from the Soviet Union over the weekend. He sought to dispose of them by saying they dealt with previously discussed matters and apparently ended diplomatic exchanges on those matters.

According to the State Department spokesman one Moscow note repeated past Soviet accusations that the Western powers were heightening Berlin tensions. A second note complained about applications of certain airworthiness standards by the Allied commandants to aircraft entering Berlin.

Soviet Protest

A third note, White said, repeated Soviet protestations over seizure of a Cuban sugar cargo in Puerto Rico. He noted the Soviet Union already has entered its claim in court there, as the State Department had suggested. He voiced hope that the "long and tedious exchanges" on these measures was now ended.

On Cuba, U.S. officials sought to impress on newsmen what they described as a proper perspective in relation to other international problems.

Specifically ruled out at this time was a U.S. invasion of Cuba, a blockade, recognition of a Cuban government in exile, or creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization type inter-American military command to deal with Cuba.

One or another of these actions has been urged in the course of the public debate over Cuba. The newsmen were told, however, that Cuba does not present a military threat to the security of the United States at this time.

Main Danger

The U.S. officials said the main danger from Cuba is the export of subversion to other Latin American lands, and in this connection counterespionage is under way.

One tactic, according to the U.S. strategists, will be to try to make the Soviet aid to Cuba as expensive as possible both for the Kremlin and for Castro. This can be done, it was said, by strengthening security measures in the Latin countries and by cutting off attempted Castro shipments of provocateurs and insurrectionist materials to Latin countries.

Restrictions on non-Communist shipping to Cuba also are to be tightened, requiring Communist ships to make more of the long hauls to Cuba.

The Soviet military aid to Castro was described again as helpful only for Cuba's defenses and U.S. surveillance of Cuba was reported sufficiently good to keep the United States well informed on what is going on.

High Court Refuses Obscenity Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Monday to hear appeals asking it to spell out further its 1959 decision limiting the conviction of booksellers who offer obscene books.

The appeal was by three New York City booksellers convicted under a state law which prohibits sale, or possession with intent to sell, any obscene books. All three claimed that the prosecution did not prove, as the 1959 ruling required, that they knew the contents of the books were obscene.

The three were arrested by city detectives who purchased paperback books.

Unlike Monday's decision, the decree of three years ago set free some California booksellers. The New Yorkers' appeal noted that the tribunal said then it was not ruling on what sort of mental element is requisite in a constitutionally permissible prosecution in such cases.

Legal Technicality

The New York booksellers asked the court whether the prosecution must "prove knowledge by the accused of the obscene nature of the book alleged to be obscene, as distinguished from knowledge of the contents of such publication."

The high tribunal made no comment in rejecting the appeal by Louis Finkelstein, a store owner, and two clerks, Louis Schaeffer and Harold Zucker. Only Justice William O. Douglas wanted to hear the appeal.

This let stand the finding by the New York Court of Appeals in the case of Finkelstein and Schaeffer that the books were "muck for muck's sake and nothing more."

Other Decisions

In this second decision day of the new term, the court also:

—Agreed to rule on constitutionality of a 1952 law which says a naturalized person who resides for three years in the country of his origin automatically loses his American citizenship. The State Department said over 1,000 persons a year have lost citizenship this way.

—Affirmed the antitrust conviction of the Utah Pharmaceutical Association for agreeing to maintain uniform retail prices for prescription drugs. A request for review of a smaller conviction of the Northern California Pharmaceutical Association was turned down, letting the sentence stand. Both associations contended their agreements were wholly local in character and thus outside the antitrust law.

Gomulka In Berlin For Ulbricht Talks

BERLIN (AP)—Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's anti-Stalinist Communist leader, arrived Monday for a week-long unity visit with Walter Ulbricht, the head of the East German Communist regime and one of the chief holdovers from the Stalinist period.

Gomulka went right down the Communist line on Berlin in his arrival speech. He denounced "uninterrupted provocations" he said came from West Berlin.

"That is why we are fighting," he said, "for a peace treaty with Germany, in order to do away with lawlessness in the form of the remnants of the occupation regime, in order to solve the West Berlin problem by turning West Berlin into a free, demilitarized city."

Arrives With Premier

Gomulka arrived with Premier Josef Cyrulnicewicz by special train at what used to be called the Silesian station. The Communists renamed it East Station because the former German province of Silesia has now been incorporated into Poland.

Gomulka embraced Ulbricht and Cyrulnicewicz kissed the German leader on both of his bearded cheeks. They inspected a steel-helmeted, jack-booted honor guard while a band played old Prussian marches.

After a visit to party headquarters and two wreath-layings, the East German and Polish leaders went into conference.

Communist Answer

The visit is widely regarded as the Communist answer to the popular trip of President Charles De Gaulle of France to West Germany last month. The Poles are sometimes considered the "historic enemy" of Germany in the east as is France in the west.

Reconciliation has been harder despite Communist ideology. The Poles have more bitter memories than the French of the German occupation in World War II. Many Germans feel strongly that they have a right to the territories now held by Poland, while few would seriously put in a claim for Alsace and Lorraine, held by France.

RED OUSTED — Hungarian Vice President Gyoergy Marosán has been stripped of his power and accused of violation of Communist party discipline, a Budapest radio broadcast said. ## Dilworth, Scranton Discuss Campaign Issues Amicably PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gubernatorial candidates Richardson Dilworth and William Scranton appeared jointly for the sixth time Monday as their campaigns headed into the final three weeks.

The candidates each spoke for 10 minutes before a Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce luncheon, then answered questions from the floor. They had lunch at the same table but sat on either side of Gwilym A. Price Jr., chairman of the chamber's political education committee.

Cites Record
Dilworth said the Leader and Lawrence Democratic administrations straightened out what he called the financial "hodge-podge" left by previous Republican administrations.

"When we came into office in 1955," Dilworth said, "we found a government administered without any system of job classification, or of salary classification. Each department head set up his own job classification and salary scales."

He added there was no central budget control, no standard for accounting by each department and no central purchasing system.

"Today, we have uniform job classification, salary classification, central purchasing and efficient central budget control," he continued. "That is the reason Gov. Lawrence will pass on to his successor a real balanced budget."

Civil Service
Dilworth said it would be his goal to place more than half of the state's 82,000 employees under "effective legislative Civil Service" in the next four years.

In answer to a question, Dilworth said he would not favor a state income tax during his term as governor.

Scranton called for "improvement of industrial development through building a better industrial climate by providing honest, efficient government."

The congressman also cited a need for community development programs, including a new cabinet-rank department of community development. The state must make new efforts, he said, in the fields of race relations, neighborhood development and transportation planning.

Housing Needed
He added that housing development should be encouraged through "model housing codes and constructive leadership for the housing industry."

Concerning mass transit programs, Scranton said consideration should be given to a proposal by State Rep. Maurice Goldstein, R-Allegheny. Goldstein wants gasoline tax and motor license receipts to be made available to the Allegheny County Port Authority and similar public authorities for the acquisition, maintenance and financing of mass transit facilities.

Bangor School 1st In U.S. To Install Planetarium

THE Bangor Area Joint School System is the first School District in the United States to have a Portable Planetarium completely mobile on a specially engineered cart that has the Planetarium housed on the top.

The entire sound system including tape recorder, record player and speakers of special design, (so that, sound effects like thunder etc. will not lose their authenticity) is housed underneath. Enclosed wheels lock to plates installed on stage, making sure that all adjustments will remain accurate during show.

The planetarium projects both Northern and Southern Hemisphere, incorporates optical lenses for all of its stars and heavenly bodies.

The collapsible dome was designed by Don Hartley of Hartley's, Bethlehem. It has been his desire to have a 25 foot dome where all planets and stars are projected, expand on a school stage which then has a 75 foot plus circumference. At completion of show, the dome will collapse, similar to a parachute and by an electronic control held by instructor, raise to the stage ceiling where it is stored until the next show.

This method has, during the three years of design, undergone many changes. Due to the precision required in projecting, design and material was used that afforded this accuracy even though it collapses after each show.

Hartley has orders from other sections in the United States for this collapsible dome. However, he preferred to install the first unit in the area where he has been closely affiliated with all the schools for the past 20 years, as a progressive leader in augmenting new ideas in Audio Visual equipment.

"This district had teachers enrolled in Science Courses in colleges as far as Oregon during the past year. In purchasing the equipment, it was the school board's intention that this new building will provide the latest training equipment, so that, their future employment will not be hampered by lack of knowledge of space," an official said yesterday.

The planetarium will not only be available to the students in this building, but, planned programs for different age levels in all the schools of our district will be available creating an interest at an early age level.

Last year, various school board members traveled to Harrisburg where a special program was arranged on planetariums. Donald Keat, superintendent, and Steve Mabus, secretary, traveled to the New England area during the early part of this year to study program material with astronomers.

More In Monroe County Self-Employed, Data Shows

HOW strong is the "be your own boss" urge in Monroe County? How many local residents are self-employed? How much do they earn, on the average?

Answers to these questions are provided, courtesy of the Department of Commerce, on the basis of data collected during the 1960 census.

They show that no less than 2,557 local residents are self-employed, their incomes coming from their own business, profession, trade or farm.

This compares with a total of 16,363 working for wages or salaries in enterprises owned by others. Included in this figure are all who had gainful employment during any part of the year.

Thus, it is shown, 13.5 percent of Monroe County's working population are self-employed.

Somewhat Greater
The proportion is somewhat greater than in most parts of the Middle Atlantic States, where 11.2 percent of the workers are in business for themselves. In the State of Pennsylvania, the ratio is 11.1 percent.

In general, throughout the United States, the number of individuals who are self-employed is growing smaller and smaller.

The little neighborhood storekeeper is losing out, frequently to the shopping center and the department store, which carry a much wider variety of items.

But the chief decline is in the number of small farm operators. However, there are still many venturesome people who take the plunge each year and start up businesses of their own.

Although they know that the mortality rate is high for new enterprises, they are willing to invest their time and their money in the hope of success. Many survive the difficult early period and become firmly established. Others do not make it the first time but may do so on a second attempt.

How much do the self-employed people in Monroe County earn? Their median net income, after paying all operating costs, and, in the case of farmers, after allowances for food and housing in addition, came to $1,079 per person.

This compares with an income of $3,000 per capita for those who were not self-employed.

WHO NEEDS 160 MPH?

or Why Studebaker Broke 29 Speed Records*

To be truthful, just three types of people need record-breaking speeds...the police, racing drivers and automotive test engineers. But you and your family do have a stake in the endurance such speeds require!

Even at sixty miles an hour, a car's wheels and their bearings make 770 revolutions a minute; each of the pistons goes up and down more than 2300 times a minute; the rear axle gears mesh 33,000 times! So think of the punishment a car must take at one hundred and sixty!

Said Andy Granatelli, test driver of our 160-plus Avanti: "Can you imagine holding a car wide open in first gear for fifty miles? Well this would be easy compared to what the Avanti had to do to set 29 records!"

Here's what this remarkable endurance means to you: The major chassis and engine components of the Avanti are common to or optional on all other cars from Studebaker in '63, the Cruiser, the Hawk, the Larks.

For example, if all parts of the Lark you buy can stand up to this kind of super-strain, they'll take your hour-after-hour turnpike driving in stride for years. If our new and exclusive heat-dissipating disc brakes will stop this car in a straight line, in a fraction of the distance of conventional brakes—then you and your family are bound to be safer.

To be sure, in making these tests the Avanti (a certified stock car) did set 29 speed records in twelve hours (with speeds in excess of 170 mph), and we're proud of it.

But we are even prouder that these records proved without doubt the superior reliability of our car. We believe this is a major contribution to highway safety...and to yours! Why not take a look at the cars from Studebaker this year—you may save a lot more than just money!

Be sure to ask your dealer about the new 24-month/24,000 mile Warranty on all cars from Studebaker!

Registration figures for the school's 1962 fall semester show enrollment to be at an all-time peak at 908 students.

The increase in the student body as a whole results from two factors which are — more students remaining in college to complete their education and also, more transfer and re-instated students in 1961.

Moravian College is presently observing the anniversaries of its joint founding — 1742 being the date for the Women's College and 1807 for the Men's College.

Incodel Honors Chairman Pitkin

POCONO MANOR — The Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin, holding its final meeting, last night presented a plaque to Francis Pitkin, its chairman, at a dinner in Pocono Manor Inn.

Incodel, as it is commonly known, will cease operations at the end of the year, with its duties being taken over by the Delaware River Basin Commission, formed among the federal government and the states of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania's secretary of forests and waters, was the principal speaker at the dinner.

The approximately 300 persons attending the session heard a variety of reports at yesterday's morning and afternoon sessions.

Col. T. H. Setcliffe, U. S. Army District Engineer, told the group he had received confirmation that eight multi-purpose projects for the Delaware Basin were included in the omnibus bill passed by Congress last week at a cost to the federal government of $192,000,000. He also reported that $100,000 was allocated for the Beltzville project.

Setcliffe said the engineers will start work on these projects as soon as the funds allotted are made available to them.

Alvin C. Watson of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service reported that of 100 proposed small watershed projects in the basin area, 47 have been authorized by Congress and 46 are under construction.

Herbert A. Howlett, chief of planning, Delaware River Basin Commission, reported on the development of the comprehensive plan and laid down criteria for such plans.

New Techniques

Maynard H. Hufschmidt, director of the water program at Harvard University, outlined new techniques for river basin planning.

During the morning session, John Boardman, chief engineer for Incodel, reported on the three water quality monitoring stations operated by the group and reported on a research program at Lehigh University which is using cement dust to neutralize acids in area streams and ponds to permit fish and other wildlife to live in them. He said results of the experiments have been excellent.

Dr. Basin Parker, head of the biology department at Lehigh, described a portable water monitoring station he invented.

Norman H. Beamer, district director of the Quality of Water Branch, U. S. Geological Survey, outlined the quality monitoring program his organization has underway in the lower Delaware from Trenton, N. J., to Wilmington, Del.

Earl Anderson, project director of the Delaware Estuary Study for the U. S. Public Health Service, spoke on that group's three-to-five-year program to try to develop water quality forecasting systems, based on the quantity of water and the wastes which are known to be going into it.

Allen V. Kneese, research associate of Resources for the Future, Washington, D. C., reported on economic problems in dealing with water quality.

Today, the board of directors of the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin will meet here. Charles R. Bensinger, Jr., Stroudsburg attorney who is president of the WRA, opened yesterday's meeting of Incodel.

Eight Deeds Filed At Court House

West's Weakness

"... Both trade unions and employers have become technically irresponsible. Wage demands are continually made and continually met with little regard to the interests of the people as a whole or the well-being of the economy. Prices rise steadily."

That observation could have appeared in any one of thousands of newspapers in this country. But it didn't. It comes from far away—from a lead editorial in the London Times. And it serves to illustrate a problem which is common to almost the entire West, and which weakens its position in a divided and chaotic world.

In our own country, prices and costs continue to inch up. The increases in a brief given period are small—a fraction of one percent. But over months and years they further erode the worth of the dollar—and, most important in the long view, weaken the dollar's standing in bitterly competitive world markets.

When labor demands wage increases greater than gains in productivity justify, it is, in effect, demanding more inflation. When employers are forced to agree to such increases, they are doing precisely the same thing. And the worst offenders of all are spendthrift politicians who take a drunken sailor's view of deficits.

While Washington Keeps Silent

One of the most perplexing enigmas on the world scene today is why Washington continues to play Moscow's game at one vitally important point. This point is the Moscow threat to use nuclear weapons if the United States should undertake military action against Castro's Cuba.

This Soviet threat is an empty one. The White House knows this. The State Department knows this. The Kremlin knows this. Havana knows this. Any reasonably informed student of world affairs knows this. They each know there is not the slightest likelihood of the Soviet Union attacking the United States with nuclear weapons—and thereby inviting its own destruction with similar weapons—for the sake of an insignificant, chaotically run, tiny island ninety miles off the coast of Florida.

Yet at no point has either President Kennedy or Secretary of State Rusk publicly and firmly stated that the Soviet threat in regard to Cuba is identical with the threat it made to launch rockets against London if Britain did not stop its attack against Egypt in 1956. At that time Moscow made its threat only after it had become apparent that Britain and France had already decided to end their attack—in other words, when it was safe to make it.

Unfortunately, since neither the White House nor the State Department has seen fit to expose the Soviet bluff, some individuals, particularly in Latin America, have begun to believe that Moscow meant what it said.

It is time for Washington to stop validating Moscow's game by its inexplicable silence in this matter.

Those Marshals

When, on television, I saw the marshals on the Campus of the University of Mississippi, fully garbed with steel helmets, gas masks, truncheons, etc., I wondered where they came from. I have only known two kinds of marshals:

One, the old-time, club-house politician, wide of girth, an enormous, strong, smelly cigar in his mouth, who served summonses and seized the goods of those in trouble;

The other is the kind of marshal who appears on television, the finest of which is Matt Dillon in "Gunsmoke," who always kills the wrong-doer. It is hard to understand how it happens that nobody kills Matt Dillon, but then there would be no more stories.

So, when I saw Bobby's Marshals, looking tall and young and strong, I wanted to make sure that no national police force was being organized. We do have a militia in which every citizen is bound to serve, if called upon. We do have a National Guard in each state, a non-professional citizen's army, which has been of yeoman service in our nation's history. But a national police force smacks of something obnoxious and against the creation of it so experienced a man as J. Edgar Hoover has always fought.

So where did the marshals come from? Well, it seems that when William Rogers was Attorney General, a small force was started to put down riots and such, which did not require the dramatic magnification of the use of the Army.

When the situation on the Mississippi Campus began to look unpleasant, the Department of Justice was able to mobilize quickly 545 men, 339 of whom came from Southern States—Southerners, in fact—who undertook this duty. The components of this body were as follows:

128 Deputy Marshals
330 Border Patrolmen
97 Prison Guards

From the standpoint of maintaining the peace where peace cannot otherwise be maintained, this is an interesting group. They are Federal employees, normally assigned to various duties, who can be swiftly mobilized. It means that if the police in a city cannot handle such a Communist riot as occurred in San Francisco, or a race demonstration such as occurred on the University of Mississippi Campus, such a body can immediately be brought in.

The figure 339 for Southerners is startling but I am assured that it is accurate. It means that sectionalism has degenerated more in the South than one realizes when a national issue is involved.

I am also told that, on the record, the University of Mississippi is not a segregated university. I am told that in the documentation of the case, the university authorities did not take the stand that a Negro would not be admitted. It was the Governor who intervened, either as Governor or as an alumnus, who took this position and therefore the attitude of the Administration is that the Governor is responsible for the fracas.

Another matter which shocked Northern reporters and about which there has been grievous concern was the language of the students, both male and female,

Apparently the girls shouted the same cuss words as the boys and an experienced hand told me that he had not heard such cussing in a long time. To Northerners this was particularly astonishing because they had always been told that southern womanhood was delicate and softspoken as well as beautiful. Apparently some of these children need their mouths washed with yellow soap.

Perhaps the students will now settle down to the inevitable business of learning the facts of life as they appear in books which is the main business of a university. Perhaps this will all pass as an unpleasant dream and that they will work at science and engineering and the creation of a pleasanter world.

Nobody expects perfection of the human race and young people are only too often the reflection of past generations, particularly when they are stirred to action by those in whom hate burns where love and pity should dwell.

The Mississippi affair needs to be forgotten, particularly by the students. It occurred; it did much damage; but it should not be permitted to leave a permanent mark upon human relations. The students might take a look at Memphis, close at hand, where race relations have taken a good turn and where the town is peaceful and prospering because of it. Much might be learned there, particularly by students in the social sciences.

About Town

Ask Us Anything

According to an authoritative source: Lack of sunlight, not frost turns the leaves. When the days shorten, the trees send the sap into the trunk and roots and out of circulation to the leaves. With less chlorophyll the green pigment which permits the leaves to make sugar from the air, moisture and sunlight, begins to fade.

As the chlorophyll fades the yellow pigments which were already there, emerge. The reds in other leaves are the result of sugar oxidizing in the sunlight.

(Next week we will have the dope on storks.)

Vice President Lyndon Johnson tells this one:

The most popular preacher who ever came to the Texas hill country had a prayer which he said to himself every Sunday morning. It went this way: "Lord, fill my mouth with worthwhile stuff, and nudge me when I've said enough."

On The Road With Scranton

With Scranton Campaign Caravan — The Scranton-Ford-Governor campaign caravan — like most such conglomerations — by virtue of its very existence is a human personality — mechanical contraption complex.

On the personality side there is the constant pressure; the sudden need for change of tactics; a last minute revised schedule; delays along the line — and the inevitable unexpected developments.

From the mechanical side there is the ever-present "herding" facet — the aspirin — consuming care of keeping the vehicles comprising the caravan moving in proper sequence, proper timing, meeting commitments and schedules — all within pre-arranged time sequences.

In the case of the Scranton caravan there is the inevitable sound vehicle wired with speakers with portable microphones plus facilities for playing (non) hi-fi music (the latter term may be questionable) to attract the attention of the less sharp-eared voters.

Then there is the "candidate vehicle" which is just what the name implies, plus the vehicle for caravan aides, and a press bus for use of the working press. From this point, the vehicle assemblage varies according to the "pick-ups" in the localities through which the entourage moves.

What has all this produced in the case of William Warren Scranton, Republican candidate for Governor?

This, of course is quite questionable but with hope ever springing eternal etc., the feeling among Scranton strategists is that the caravan is quite the necessity indeed. It's the quick chance to grab the man on the street, cover a lot of ground which could not be snagged in just big regional meetings.

Often the day's schedule will end with a "rally," a dinner or something like that in the evening wherein it's up to the local organization to produce the crowd.

In this campaign Republicans have no state payrollers to whom they may "suggest" attending (as they did prior to 1953) but nevertheless the crowds the Scranton caravan has been attracting at such events has been surprising even to GOP old pros.

The other day for example, a local fund raising dinner — strictly local — was on the caravan schedule as the day's wind-up affair. At $10 a plate, it has been hoped that around 1100 would turn out. Instead 1431 sat down at the festive boards.

This has been typical of what the Scranton people have been finding on the campaign trail this year. To many it is an omen of aroused and renewed interest in the party — but perhaps more specifically in the party candidates headed by Mr. Scranton.

Is this "aroused interest" enough to insure victory? It's the age-old fingernail — gnawing question to which no one has the answer now, but party strategists and Mr. Scranton believe it is sufficient.

Reaction of the crowds is another solid indicator to party thinkers. As the caravan moves from town to town and hamlet to hamlet, again there is the gathering of interested listeners, onlookers, and the curious.

The significant point however once again seemingly lies in the fact that these are not the state payrollers who can be "forced" to attend such affairs. No one this year can or is "forcing" the Scranton groups.

There is no choice other than relying solely on voluntary attendance.

One significant conclusion from riding the Scranton campaign caravan:

The Republican candidate for Governor most certainly is conducting a quite highly profitable campaign — the only question remaining is whether it will be profitable enough. Judging from caravan gleanings however, the answer seemingly would be in the affirmative.

(Tomorrow: Telltale incidents on the caravan.)

Marly Baldwin, the Poonos ambassador of goodwill, has secured American League umpire Joe Paparella to be guest speaker at the coming Poonos Mountains Baseball League's annual banquet.

"Pap" is considered one of the better story tellers on the knife and fork circuit. His closeness to the baseball scene has given him material that has kept audiences laughing throughout his stay on the rostrum.

One of his favorite targets is "Yogi" Berra, the veteran New York Yankee catcher-outfielder. Naturally the humorous side of "Yogi" is brought out by Paparella who is a native of Eynon, a few coal pockets north of Scranton.

Compromise On Omnibus Bill May Add To Federal Deficit

by James W. Douthat

Washington — The compromise agreement on the Administration's omnibus tax bill threatens to add almost $1.3 billion to the federal deficit for the current fiscal year — and forecasts another bitter battle next year over President Kennedy's new tax program.

The measure was opposed throughout by industry on the ground that, among other things, it failed to remove the road blocks now hindering the nation's industrial expansion which everyone desires.

Industry contended that any benefits received by some companies from the 7 percent tax credit for investment in new machinery and equipment would be heavily counter-balanced by severe penalties imposed on business operations by other provisions of the measure.

These, it was maintained, would retard business expansion — rather than encourage it.

Mr. Kennedy plans to submit a new program next year providing an across-the-board cut in personal and corporation income tax rates — but to be accompanied by other proposals to recoup from industry and individuals at least part of the revenue lost by the income tax reductions.

Until the details are available, it is impossible to reach a judgment — but, if some of the current reports as to what is under consideration prove true, next year's battle may make this year's controversy look like a lover's paradise by comparison.

What industry advocates is enactment of the Herlong-Baker Bill which would lower personal and corporation income tax rates to a maximum of 42 percent by a series of five annual reductions.

A similar measure was before the House Ways and Means Committee this year and was tabled by a 14-11 vote. A shift of only two votes next year could start the bill on its way to enactment.

Backers of the measure contend that it would provide investment capital which would make possible the modernization and expansion of industry — which would permit more effective competition with foreign production and provide more jobs for the unemployed.

AFL-CIO Opposition The AFL-CIO denounced the compromise agreement on the omnibus measure. This placed the labor organization in direct opposition to the Kennedy Administration on this issue.

Urging rejection of the agreement, AFL-CIO President George Meany asserted that the bill bore "no resemblance to the tax reform proposals advanced by President Kennedy in April, 1961, except for one provision — the investment credit bonanza for business."

"True tax reform," he asserted, "is still a crying need."

... We sincerely trust that the new Congress, making a new start in 1963, will evolve a measure that truly serves the national interest."

Industry opposed the compromise agreement on the ground, among other things, that it contained:

1. The investment credit, described by congressional opponents as a "subsidy" device and a major "loop-hole" because of its discriminatory application.

2. Foreign business income provisions, which overturned the time-honored concepts of tax law by taxing earnings of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies before returned to this country. As much as 90 percent of such earnings could be subject to current taxation. These provisions seriously affect industry's ability to compete abroad.

3. Penalties on business expenses, involving new and unworkable rules which seriously interfere with management's right to determine what are proper costs of doing business. The new restrictions apply to entertainment expenses and facilities, business gifts, and ordinary expenditures for business travel, meals and lodging.

Even in areas where industry supports a change in the tax laws, such as legislative expenditures and taxation of cooperatives, the measure takes only a partial step in the right direction.

For example, under the provisions covering legislative expenditures, industry is prohibited from deducting amounts spent for informing the general public on legislative matters.

Cooperatives would still be able to use tax-free business earnings for expansion even though the measure attempts to levy a partial tax on the individual cooperative member or patron.

Inside You And Yours

Surgery For Memory

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Can surgery really restore youth to your aging brain? Even after several strokes?

Sometimes! Over-enthusiastic surgeons blame clogged neck arteries for 1 out of 2 strokes. More conservative surgeons estimate 1 in 10.

Calcium pebbles narrow hardened arteries. Tiny blood clots form and eventually stop up all flow. They're especially common below the jaw, where the main neck artery divides in two.

The inner branch nourishes the brain; the outer one flows to the face and scalp.

A sudden clot in that inner artery mimics a stroke. Oxygen-rich blood can't reach the brain. Muscles on the opposite side stiffen and weaken into paralysis.

Blood Flow Blocked A slow-growing clot gradually blocks blood flow. Your mind slows down. You can't seem to remember things that just happened. Everyone blames old age (senility).

Temporary strokes that bounce from side to side indicate trouble inside the skull where main arteries merge into one large traffic circle.

When strokes strike and quickly disappear — always on the same side — you may have a slow-growing clot in that neck artery. Every now and again it tickles the artery into spasm and blocks off all flow.

The "stroke" disappears when the artery relaxes.

Exploratory X-Rays When your doctor places his stethoscope on your neck, he may hear blood gushing back into the outer artery.

X-rays, after injecting special dye into the main neck artery, outline every nook and cranny. They can show whether tiny arteries around the brain are clogged, too. Then, operating on the neck can't help much.

Drugs May Help Sometimes drugs can prevent and dissolve fresh blood clots in the neck. Otherwise, the surgeon operates, removing the clot, replacing the blocked artery with a plastic tube or simply detouring the tube around the trouble spot.

And gives you back that lost memory!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Not Worth The Risk

Dear Abby: Our daughter (22) is planning a large church wedding. She wants her sister (26) to be her maid of honor. The older daughter has been going with a divorced man for the past year and a half. He has never mentioned anything to us about his intentions of marrying her, and as far as we know he hasn't mentioned them to her, either. He appears to be making a fool of her. Our daughter says unless we include her friend in the wedding party and let him sit at the wedding table with her, she will not be in the wedding party. My husband says we should include him and avoid the fuss. I am ...

DEAR UNDECIDED: Whether the man intends to marry your daughter is beside the point. She has made it plain that he is her choice and, if he agrees to escort her to the wedding, perhaps they have an "understanding." Include him or risk alienating your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17, my little sister is 12, and my mother is going to have a baby around Christmas. Mother is 41 and she has never had a baby shower given for her. I know she would like one. I would like to surprise her with a baby shower but am not sure whether it would be proper because of her age. Mother has lots of friends, and one real close one who could help me with the plans. I have my own money saved up for refreshments. Do you think it would be

Art Carney took his car into a Westchester garage for a tune-up and was handed a bill for $120. "Hey," protested Carney, "who did this tune-up? Leonard Bernstein?"

all right if I went through with my plans?

A DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: The thought is very sweet. Honey, but it is not proper for a close relative to give a shower. Why don't you discuss it with your Mother's closest lady friend? You could be the "inspiration" and let her be the sponsor.

DEAR ABBY: I can tell you why ONE woman went through her neighbor's trash. Years ago, when two of my mother's plump hens were missing, she went through the neighbors' trash until she found the feathers from one Rhode Island Red and one black and white Dominique — exactly what she'd lost. Mother went to the door and knocked. She could smell her chickens cooking, but nobody answered! She never did confront the two-legged skunk who stole them, but she knew who the thief was.

Just Between Us--

By Bobby Westbrook

In our admiration and drive for things that are Big, we sometimes miss the advantages of being small. A big meeting can be stimulating by virtue of its size, but a small meeting is often more productive of individual participation.

I'm sure the County Federation and their hosts were disappointed in the size of the afternoon meeting, but as it turned out the meeting itself proved one of the most exciting in years for those who were there since everybody had a chance to add her two cents worth -- and the two cents added together make a greater contribution than one person possibly could.

The state officers, fresh from the state board meeting in Erie, were surprised to find out that local clubwomen had already been alerted to the new "Project Alert" against wholesale spraying of insecticides and other forms of chemical pollution. For which The Daily Record can take a modest bow since that's where they had read about it on the same day as the story broke in Pittsburgh.

The Progressive Women can take an even bigger bow since the whole meeting was delightful. Barred by a new rule forbidding corsages for the guests, they had achieved the same effect by decorating autumn leaf nametags with nosegays of leaves and acorns.

And the entertainer was also a delight since in this area Pennsylvania Dutch expressions are still so common that they are always greeted with a sort of delighted recognition. The warmest kind of humor -- the kind that leaves you with a good taste in your mind -- is not the joke which could only happen to somebody else but the familiar language or situation in which you recognize yourself.

How many mothers, I wondered, recognized how the farmer's wife in the Market talking to her daughter about a new beau recognized the question, "Well, does he want it should be for regular or just for so?"

'Project Alert' Launched By County's Club Women

With the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg as host to the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs yesterday, the emphasis was on Pennsylvania Dutch in both the dinner with its chicken and biscuits and seven sweets and seven sours at the Greenview Guest Farm and in the entertainment.

Mrs. C. Raymond Todd presented a series of Pennsylvania Dutch sketches in a Farmer's Market, in a railroad station, and at home. She was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. William B. Fisher.

The dinner meeting followed a spirited discussion workshop in the afternoon conducted by Mrs. Robert Payne, county president, with Mrs. Robert H. Holloway, vice president, northeast district, of the Pennsylvania Federation.

Discussion centered around the new "Operation Alert," the new project of the state federation seeking to alert the people to the dangers of massive spraying of insecticides, additives to food, and other chemical pollution of air and water.

Reports were given by county department chairmen and club presidents. Mrs. Walter Singer gave the invocation; Mrs. Stanley Grace led the pledge of allegiance and club collect. The invocation at the dinner was given by Mrs. Edward Hess.

Dinner speaker was Mrs. John M. Spatz, state program chairman. Praising the participation of the local club women in the afternoon program, Mrs. Spatz told the story of how the Woman's Club Federation, now 12 million women strong, had its beginning when newspaper women barred because of their sex from attending a Press Club dinner for Charles Dickens in New York in 1859 had organized the Sorosis Club built around the interest of women. On its 21st birthday the Sorosis invited members of other women's group throughout the country to join them, which was when the Federation began.

Mrs. Spatz's talk dealt largely with club programs as a mirror of the club's interests in community service.

Mrs. George Hafler was chairman of arrangements and reservations; Mrs. William Hannas of registration; Mrs. Kenneth Werkheiser, publicity; Mrs. Walter

'Project Alert' Launched By County's Club Women

With the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg as host to the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs yesterday, the emphasis was on Pennsylvania Dutch in both the dinner with its chicken and biscuits and seven sweets and seven sours at the Greenview Guest Farm and in the entertainment.

Mrs. C. Raymond Todd presented a series of Pennsylvania Dutch sketches in a Farmer's Market, in a railroad station, and at home. She was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. William B. Fisher.

The dinner meeting followed a spirited discussion workshop in the afternoon conducted by Mrs. Robert Payne, county president, with Mrs. Robert H. Holloway, vice president, northeast district, of the Pennsylvania Federation.

Discussion centered around the new "Operation Alert," the new project of the state federation seeking to alert the people to the dangers of massive spraying of insecticides, additives to food, and other chemical pollution of air and water.

Reports were given by county department chairmen and club presidents. Mrs. Walter Singer gave the invocation; Mrs. Stanley Grace led the pledge of allegiance and club collect. The invocation at the dinner was given by Mrs. Edward Hess.

Dinner speaker was Mrs. John M. Spatz, state program chairman. Praising the participation of the local club women in the afternoon program, Mrs. Spatz told the story of how the Woman's Club Federation, now 12 million women strong, had its beginning when newspaper women barred because of their sex from attending a Press Club dinner for Charles Dickens in New York in 1859 had organized the Sorosis Club built around the interest of women. On its 21st birthday the Sorosis invited members of other women's group throughout the country to join them, which was when the Federation began.

Mrs. Spatz's talk dealt largely with club programs as a mirror of the club's interests in community service.

Mrs. George Hafler was chairman of arrangements and reservations; Mrs. William Hannas of registration; Mrs. Kenneth Werkheiser, publicity; Mrs. Walter

Count on Cumuloft® nylon for long lasting carpet luxury

CUMULOFT TAKES LITTLE CARE!

Smooth, non-absorbent Cumuloft nylon yarn keeps soil on the surface where it's easier to whisk away. Stain-causing liquids can't penetrate the yarn and many spills can be easily removed with detergent and water. And Cumuloft keeps its texture and color even after repeated cleanings. Moths and mildew are no problem either. No "special treatments" are ever necessary with Cumuloft nylon. It's non-allergenic, too.

Pierce, Cepeda Deadlock Series

Ford had skirted disaster in the early innings, getting out of trouble with the help of double plays in the first and second, but ran into a problem in the fourth.

With one out in the fourth, Felipe Alou singled on a hot shot off Boyer's glove that rolled to deep shortstop. Ford worked carefully on Willie Mays, his old nemesis, and finally walked him on a 3-1 count.

Cepeda, who had broken his hitless string with a single in the second, was at bat when Ford suddenly wheeled and tried to pick Alou off second base. Ford hesitated in the midst of his throw when he saw the Yanks were late covering, and finally threw into right center.

Alou scored easily on the error, with Mays taking third. Cepeda then doubled to right center, scoring Mays, and scored himself on Davenport's ground single into center field.

Kuenn Scores
Once again there was one out when the Giants struck in the fifth. This time it was Harvey Kuenn, hitless in 10 trips in the Series, who finally broke out of it with a single to left. Chuck Hiller dropped a single into center field that fell dead on the soggy turf. Felipe Alou's single to left drove in Kuenn with the Giants' fourth run, bringing up Mays.

Houk let Ford pitch to Mays. Ford justified his faith by getting Willie on a foul pop to Moose Skowron. When Cepeda followed with a single to center, driving in Hiller, Houk decided Ford was finished. Jim Coates mopped up for 2 1-3 innings and Marshall Bridges finished the job without further damage.

Beating Ford gave the Giants a terrific boost, for the chunky lefty had won more World Series games (10) than any other pitcher and had beaten them in the opener, 6-2.

Sanford vs. Terry
In Tuesday's seventh game, the Giants will return to their left-handed hitting line-up against Terry, who will be hooking up with Sanford for the third time. Sanford won the second game 2-0 and Terry won the fifth 5-3.

Against Terry, Willie McCovey will play left field in place of Kuenn and Tom Haller will replace Ed Bailey as catcher. The awakened Cepeda will stay in the line-up.

Despite the soggy outfield, the players did not appear to be overly handicapped. They made most of the plays, skidding at times and cutting fancy divots in the turf. Kuenn might have reached Kubek's single in the seventh on solid ground. As it was, he made a dive, got a hand on the ball, but could not hold it.

Mays roamed around center field in his usual style, moving deep to take a long fly by Mickey Mantle in the second and going deep to left center for Skowron's long drive in the third.

Texas Is Rated In Top Spot

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns nudged Alabama's Crimson Tide out of the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' weekly poll of college football teams Tuesday. Texas became the third team to hold a shaky lead in the weekly ratings. Alabama had replaced Ohio State the week before.

Coach Darrell Royal's Longhorns, second in last week's poll, won its fourth straight game Saturday by edging Oklahoma 9-6, while Alabama also won its fourth in a row. Alabama had its troubles before downing Houston, 14-3. A week before, Mississippi had crushed Houston 40-7.

Texas On Top

Texas, although receiving only 21 first place ballots to 24 for Alabama, moved into the top spot on the basis of heavier support in the second, third and fourth place balloting. The special panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave Texas 458 points, to 437 for Alabama, the defending national champions.

Two teams dropped clear out of the top ten—Penn State and Purdue. Penn State, No. 3 last week, was beaten by Army, 9-6, while little Miami of Ohio humbled Purdue 10-7. Purdue was No. 9 a week ago.

Higher Ratings

Northwestern and Wisconsin crashed into the ratings, taking over the No. 8 and No. 10 spots, respectively. Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame 17-8, while Northwestern rolled over Minnesota 34-22.

Southern California, idle Saturday, advanced from fourth to third place, while Louisiana State hopped from sixth to fourth after beating Miami of Florida 17-3.

Mississippi, which also had the week off, held on to fifth place. Ohio State, knocked from first place to tenth in last week's poll after being upset 9-7 by UCLA, came back to pulverize Illinois 51-15. The Buckeyes advanced to sixth spot.

Top Ten

The top ten, based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point system with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Texas (21) 4 0 0 4 58
2. Alabama (24) 4 0 0 4 37
3. Southern California 3 0 0 3 32
4. Louisiana State 3 0 1 2 73
5. Mississippi 3 0 0 2 56
6. Ohio State (2) 2 1 0 2 18
7. Arkansas (1) 4 0 0 1 96
8. Northwestern (3) 3 0 0 1 65
9. Washington 3 0 1 1 43
10. Wisconsin 3 0 0 1 28

Others receiving votes: Georgia Tech, Michigan State, UCLA (1), Penn State, Missouri, Oregon, West Virginia, Maryland, Duke, Army, Auburn, Nebraska, Miami (Ohio), Kansas.

Offense Is Stammering

Injuries Taking Toll On E-burg

INJURIES are beginning to take their toll in the camp of Coach Jack Kist's East Stroudsburg High School Cavaliers.

And the fact that they are continuing to mount is causing Kist much concern, too.

Playing ball games without the likes of such reliable and veteran starters as Allan Schell, Bob Corby and Ross Transue is putting a crimp into the Cavalier attack as evidenced in the last two games.

Schell Still Sidelined
Schell has been sidelined for more than two weeks with a knee injury, while Corby and Transue turned up with sprained ankles in practice last week.

Kist's toughest job right now is juggling his players around in different positions to fill these vacancies. "Our kids have to learn new spots all at once and it's a difficult task," says the grid mentor.

Noting that the Cavaliers have two big games coming up in the next two weeks (Wilson and Hellertown), Kist notes that "We need the hard work and practice and hope we have no injuries."

'Always A Risk'

But because he is in no position to "ease up now," Kist also points out that "there is always the risk of injuries when you have to put the boys through hard drills."

Kist is well satisfied with his defensive unit, noting that Hank Harris, Bud Stann and Mike Boushell "did a real fine job for us last week." Harris, normally a linebacker, was put into the tackle slot while Boushell was switched from the line to a linebacker in the Parkland game Saturday night as the juggling in the lineup continued.

But Kist this week is working hard with the offensive unit which he admits has been "stuttering and stammering."

Offensive Troubles
"Our running is inconsistent and our passing isn't clicking," Kist continued, "and that means we're in trouble. We have to depend on our defense, that's about the size of it."

Also praised for his fine defensive unit, noting that Hank Harris, Bud Stann and Mike Boushell "did a real fine job for us last week."

Besides Schell, who probably will miss both the next two games, Corby and Transue are also doubtful starters for this week's upcoming contest against Wilson Boro.

Newhard and Stauffer will meet the next three prelim winners in the first semi-final on Feb. 17.

MELVIN & MARLEY COLONIAL RANCHER NEARS COMPLETION

Melvin & Marley, Builders, are almost finished constructing the above pictured home which is one of most interesting new homes being built in the Poconos. The home, located on Lindbergh Ave. in Stroud Township has 4 large bedrooms, (one is an enormous 14x20), 2 large living rooms (24x18 and 15x18), a dining room, kitchen, 2½ baths, laundry room of spacious 12x12, breezeway, 2 fireplaces, 2 car garage and with a full basement.

The spacious, rambling home retains many Colonial American traditions even to the detailing of a Cupola with weather vane, Colonial type gables, and a Williamsburg fireplace chimney. The attached garage has vertical siding with simulated Colonial weather stripping. Not shown are 8-pane Colonial windows & shutters which will be added to complete the detailing of the home.

BUT THE 1963 DART WILL

INTRODUCING COMPACT 63 DODGE DART

Dart's a new kind of compact in the large economy size. It's got family-size room, family-size comfort. Nobody gets short-changed. The roofline sweeps straight back instead of sloping off. That means lots of headroom, front and rear. Plenty of comfort for everyone aboard. Dart's too roomy to be a compact, but too darned thrifty to be anything else. Dart's standard Six is as easy on gas as other compacts, but the comparison ends right there. This same Six has the muscle of an eight. You get sizzle, space and savings. Compact Dodge Dart, backed with a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*.

*Four authorized Dodge Dealers' Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts; torque converter; drive shaft; universal joints (excluding dust covers); rear axle and differential; and rear wheel bearings—provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedules. For full details, see your nearest Dodge Dealer.
